

THE 'CITY OF 1000 TRADES'

An analysis of the trades listed in Wrightson's Directory reveals a town with a very diversified economy. Whilst the actual number of trades listed in Column H (1030) is of no particular interest (since some overlap or subsume others, whilst some may be the same as other trades but differently described), it is clear that the number of occupations was very large, and in the region of 1000.

Between them, they made just about everything you could think of. Indeed, they made a lot of things not listed here. For example, an advert in the directory for George Jones's Phoenix Foundry (which appears as just 'foundry') shows that they made garden rollers, iron railings, lamp posts, gear wheels, safes, fire backs, fire irons, window frames and cooking pots, none of which appear in the list alongside.
